Marcello,

We just returned from another fabulous trip to Italy and wanted to thank you, Marcello.

Over the past few years we, have gone on other typical guided trips run by the large companies. On those trips you are with a large group of tourists and in and out of hotels and the meals are at best average.

With Marcello, you show up at the airport in Italy at a designated time, and he handles everything else. On this trip we had 10 people including Marcello, Carolyn and Lloyd, so the personal touch was excellent.

For the first week we stayed at Castello di Tabiano. The setting was beautiful with views of the rolling hills and valleys. We ate many meals at the castle, all of which were outstanding.

Over the course of the week we did daily trips to Parma, Modena, Bologna, Verona, Salsomaggiore and finally Milano. I would dare to say that we had opportunities that few tourists can experience visiting Parmigiano, Parma prociutto and Balsamic processing plants. One day we had the opportunity to make pasta at a winery, visit the vineyards and have a pasta meal of the group's hard work. One of the top highlights was to Vinitaly wine expo in Verona.

Marcello has his hands on all aspects of the trip from transportation, choosing restaurants, menus, places to visit, etc. Some of the people chose to extend there trips to other cities and Marcello made all of the arrangements.

I would highly recommend touring with Marcello.
